

Residential Services Student Charter

Introduction

This Charter sets out the standards of provision that the University aims to provide for its students in University residences living in Northern Ireland. Students attending the QA Business School in London and Birmingham will have their own arrangements

The University is committed to aiming for the highest quality possible and this Charter is one way of outlining that commitment to you. It should be read in conjunction with the Rules of Residences and Allocation Criteria.

Residential Services are committed to encouraging diversity and inclusiveness within University residences. The University's policies have been screened under Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 2001 and the University is committed to endorsing diversity in all of its forms.

What this Charter does

- Most of the provisions of this Charter are to ensure that we achieve and maintain the highest standards of provision. This is a statement of intent and is not a legal document and there may be occasions when the University or students are prevented or delayed from meeting the expectations outlined in this Charter through circumstances or delays beyond their control.
- This Charter also sets out what we expect of you. The quality of the service that we believe you are entitled to expect is, therefore, balanced with responsibilities placed on you as a student: both are intended to ensure that you gain maximum benefit from your time with us.

Measuring our performance

We regularly measure the effectiveness of our provision through student surveys and discussions with the Students Union. In addition, in drawing up this charter, we consulted with student Resident Assistants (RAs) and focus groups. As a result, a number of key performance indicators were developed and these are included in the Charter. Performance will be measured against these indicators and the results will be reported annually via the Residential Services Annual Report and the internet.

Consultation

This Charter was developed in consultation with the Students Union, focus groups and input from student Resident Assistants. This was achieved by dissemination of the draft charter to student Resident Assistants and their comments included in the Charter. Focus groups were formulated and feedback included in the charter.

- Ensure that you avail of the support structures available when required
- To treat other residents and staff with respect
- Get involved in the resident's committees and appropriate activities for students in University residences

5. Community Relations and the Private Rented Sector

You can expect Residential Services to:

- Provide, where reasonably practicable, advice and assistance on finding accommodation within the local area
- Respond, where reasonably practicable, to complaints from local residents, other students and community groups regarding student behaviour within the local community
- Facilitate, in so far as it is possible, initiatives to allow students to develop good relationships within communities

Ongoing support

We expect you to:

- Behave in a responsible manner in respect of the accommodation you occupy, relations with co-habitants and neighbours and the local community
- Respect your local community and environment and not engage in actions that bring the University into disrepute
- Inform the University of your term-time address prior to the beginning of the academic year and inform the University of changes throughout the year

* can be provided in alternative methods as requested and when required.

What if things go wrong?

We hope you will find little to complain about in our provision, but if you do have concerns and you do bring them to our attention, they will be treated seriously and every effort will be made to resolve them.

Complaints procedure

The University has a Student Complaints Procedure for dealing with most complaints about any aspect of the academic or other services provided by the University. There are a number of types of complaint which are not dealt with under this procedure, such as where the complaint relates to academic decisions or to sexual, racial or religious harassment or discrimination, for which separate procedures exist. Details of all procedures are outlined within the student complaints leaflet. Copies of the Student Complaints leaflet are available from University Libraries, Student Support Offices, the Students' Union or from the University website. If you would like advice on the University's procedures, you should contact the Student Complaints Liaison Officer. The Students' Union can also assist with providing advice and support to students.

No student will be disadvantaged because he or she has made a complaint in good faith.

Disciplinary procedures for students

In addition, you should note that there are disciplinary procedures for students who break University regulations or fail to comply with instructions regarding conduct. Details are provided in the Charter, Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations.

Useful Information and contacts

The University has a wide range of information available to help you. You can access most of this information from the university's website: ulster.ac.uk or our staff will be happy to help you.
