

The Interface of National Security and Humanitarian Law in Situations of Low-Intensity Armed Conflict/High-Intensity Emergency

Transitional Justice Institute (TJI)
Ulster University Jordanstown Campus
Dalriada House BT370QB

7 November 2017

- 0845 Arrival and check-in at TJI
- 0900 Introductions and conference opening by TJI Director, Rory O’Connell. Framing the Workshop and the Newton Fund Research Project.
- 0930 Panel 1: The politics of norm production and application
Chair: Fionnuala Ní Aoláin
- Giovanni Mantilla: Saving Face to Avoid the Law: British 1970s Avoidance of IHL in Northern Ireland
 - Pablo Kalmanovitz: National mechanisms for international legal compliance: On the operationalization of humanitarian law in Colombia 1991-2010
 - Thomas Obel Hansen: The ICC’s Iraq/UK Preliminary Examination: options and challenges pursuing accountability for major powers’ breaches of IHL
- 1115 Break
- 1130 Panel 2: Expansion of IHL to critical or unsettled areas
Chair: Giovanni Mantilla
- Sandesh Sivakumaran: The potential applicability of IHL to the use of state force against large-scale criminal organizations
 - Shane Darcy: Exploiting the enemy within: How does international law address the use, recruitment, and treatment of informers and other collaborators?
 - Thomas Hadden: Controlling Bombardment: Human Rights and Armed Conflict

1315 Lunch sponsored by Visit Belfast

1415 Panel 3: Evolving normative landscapes

Chair: Pablo Kalmanovitz

- Fiona de Londras: Foreign Terrorist Fighters: the EU's Approach
- Robert Cryer: The Pros and Cons of the Applicability of the Law of Armed Conflict in Lower Intensity Situations: A Mixed Bag
- Fionnuala Ní Aoláin: Clarity on the interplay of legal regimes in the counter-terrorism sphere with particular emphasis on new practices in the Law of Armed Conflict

1600 Break

1615 Closing Remarks and Group Discussion.

1700 Close