

If an employee fails to attend their appointment or notify Occupational Health that they are unable to attend, one further appointment will be sent to them. A letter will be sent by management and copied to HR advising of the action taken.